FOREWORD

Capitalization of the first word only in titles follows library usage. Articles on the verso of the front cover and the last pages of each month, when of sufficient length and importance have been brought out under the author and subject; minor articles, under subject only.

Double entries are used for artists, authors, houses and schools. All are entered under the subject. Artists and authors are entered under their individual names. Houses and schools are entered under their names and also under the place. For brevity, names of places are grouped under Names, Geographical, when the origin of the name has been given.

Individual ships have been entered under the general heading Ships.

Genealogy is listed under the family name as Birdsall family. This type of entry may include considerable material or just a person's surname.

Portraits used more than once, if the same, are given one entry; if different, more entries. Similar treatment is given in the case of illustrations.
